

Cross-Country Woman Walker Stops In City

A thirtyish California woman, who identified herself only as a "Pilgrim For Peace," yesterday walked through Cumberland in a cross-country journey that is taking her from Los Angeles to Washington and New York.

The woman said that she is devoting the entire year to her cross-country journey and averages about 25 miles a day while walking.

She plans to call on President Eisenhower in Washington, presenting him a petition asking him to work for disarmament and for the establishment of a Secretary of Peace in his cabinet. She also will visit the United Nations in New York to seek a concerted effort for world disarmament. While here she was interviewed by a local radio station.