

Local Weather

AMES: Partly cloudy through Saturday. High Saturday 60-65. Low tonight 35-40. Local frost likely.

Ames

VOL. 89—NO. 106

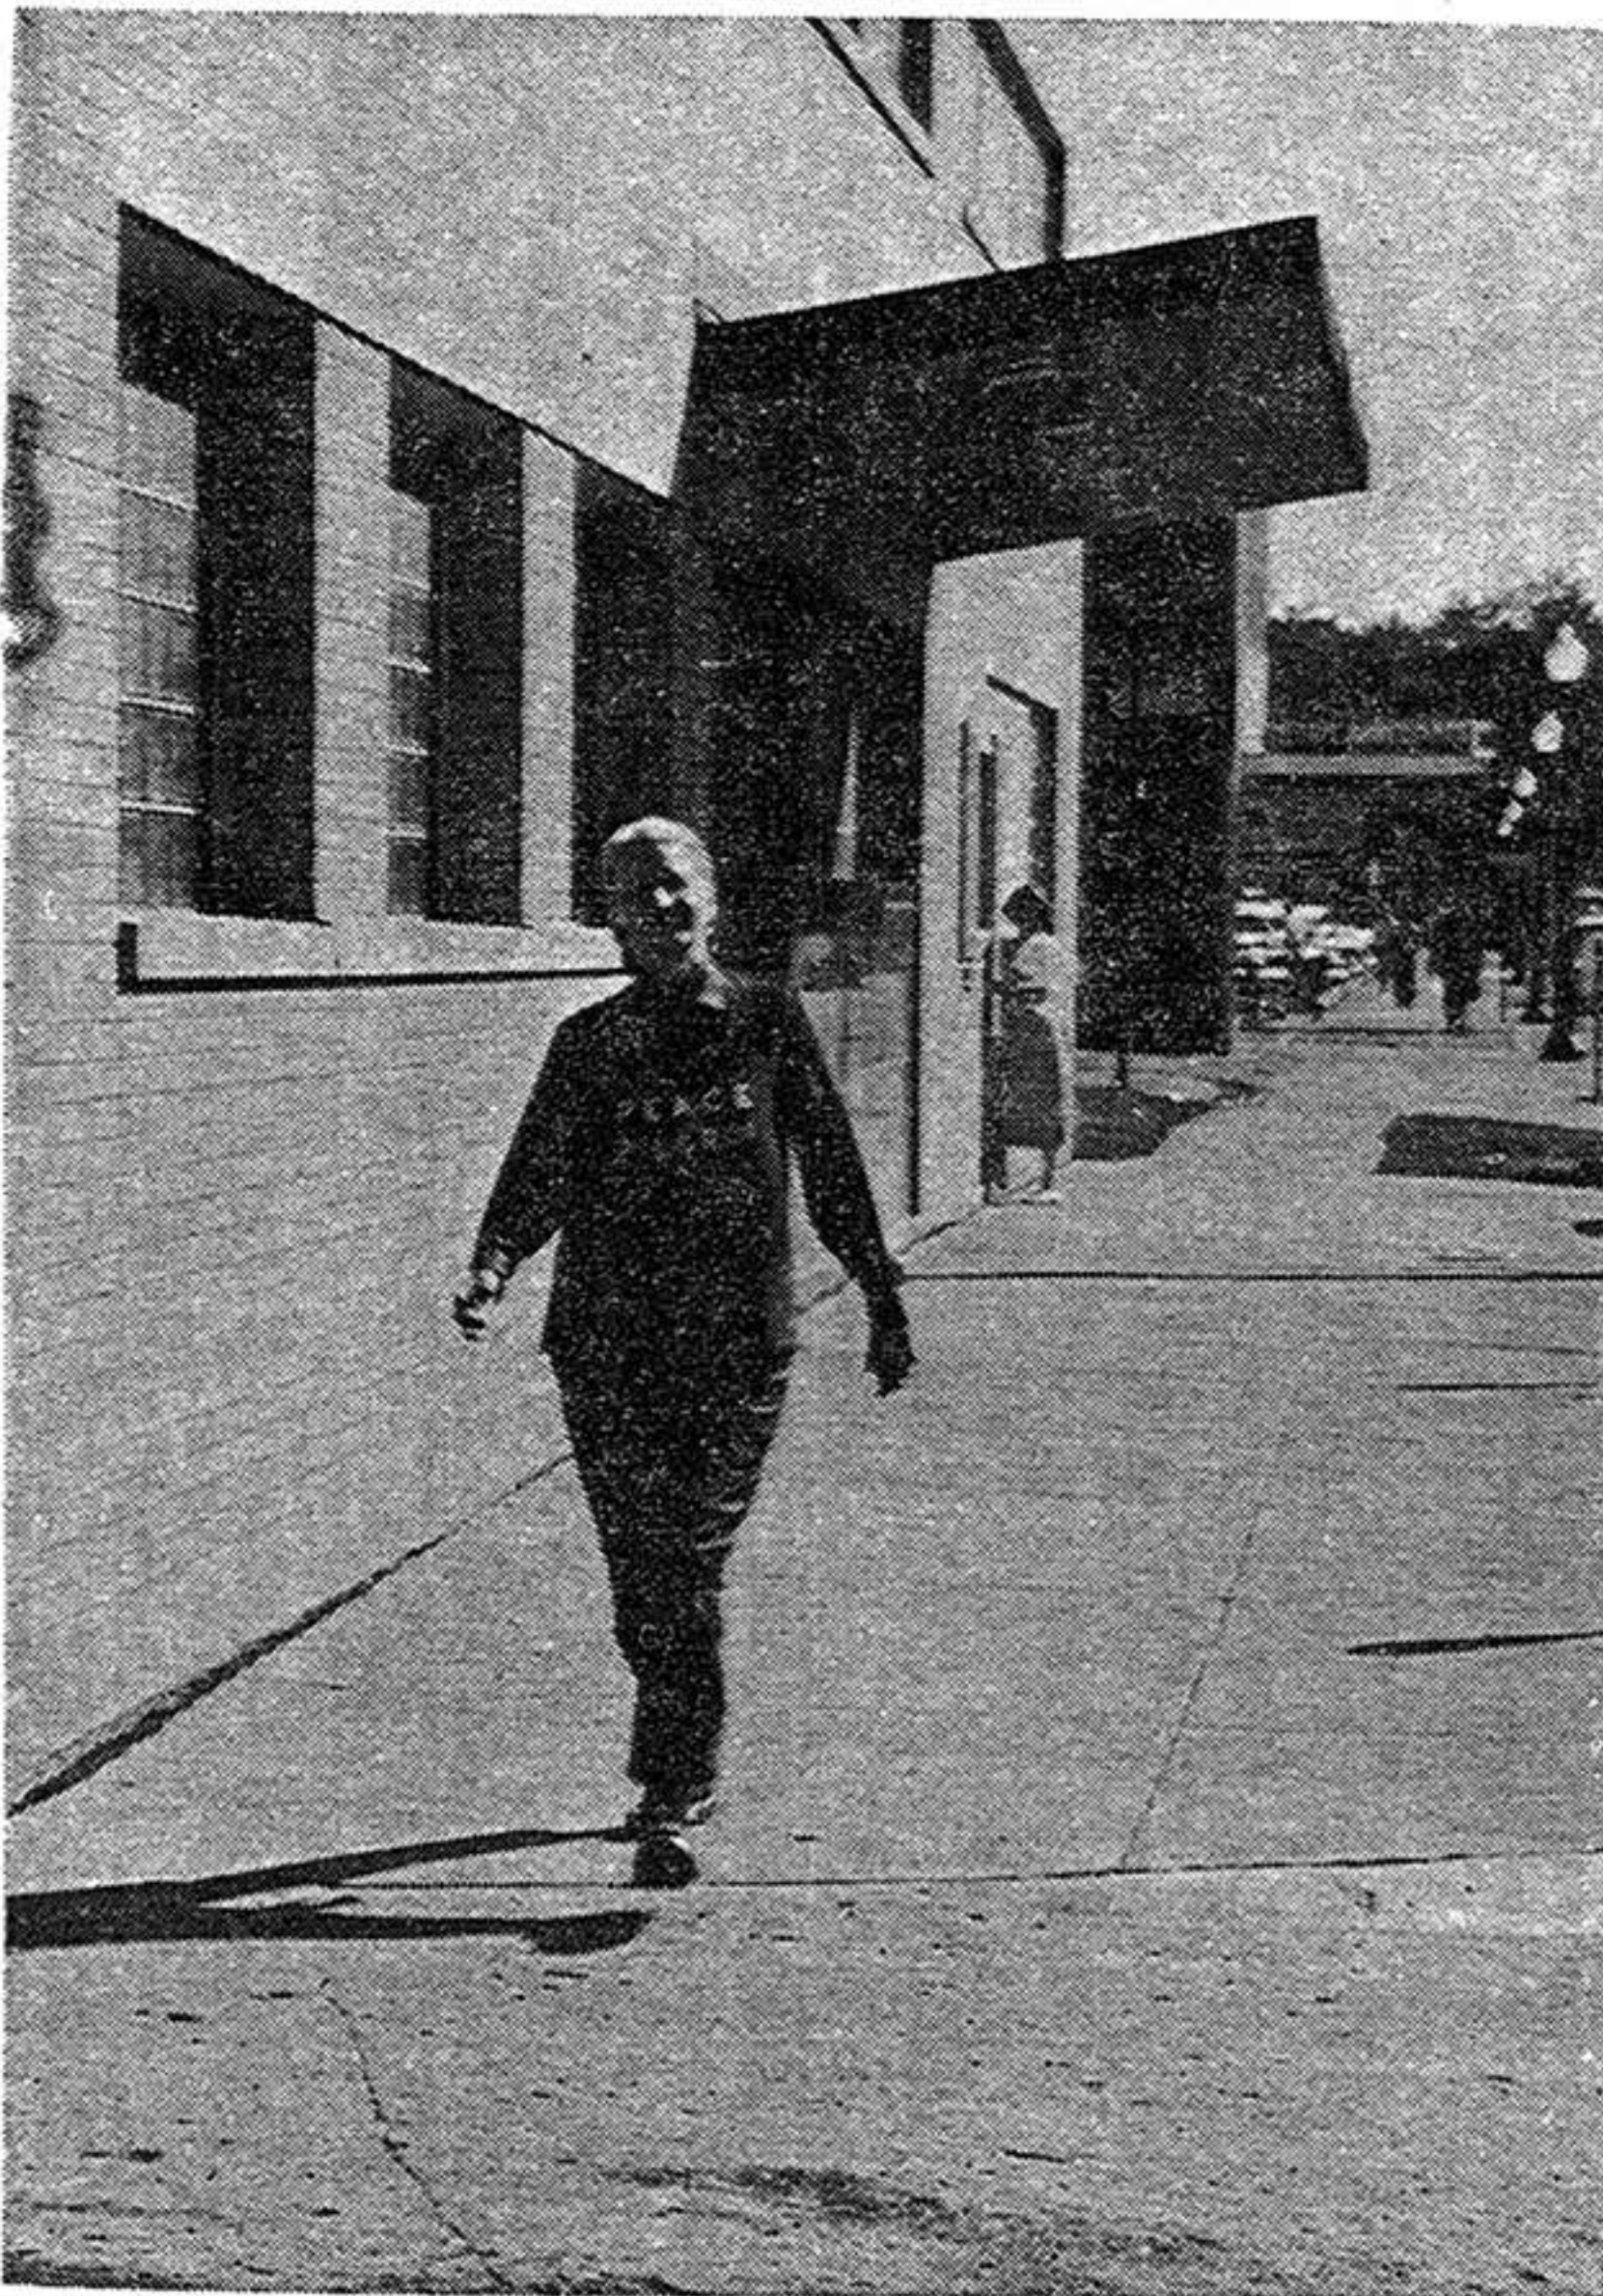

United Press Wire Service

Daily Tribune

AMES, IOWA, FRIDAY, SEPTEMBER 30, 1955

Official Ames and Story County Paper

She Wants Disarmament

Tribune Photo
"Peace Pilgrim" walks down the street in Ames, as a stopover on her "10,000-mile" pilgrimage for World Disarmament. (See story).

Pilgrim For Peace Stops Here

A slender, energetic woman in a tunic with "Peace Pilgrim" lettered on the front is in Ames this week, as part of her "10,000-mile" pilgrimage for World Disarmament.

She has already walked 6,900 miles from coast to coast, she says, and is starting back on the second leg of her journey, during which she hopes to visit each state capital and walk at least 100 miles in each state. She plans to remain a wanderer until "mankind has learned the way of peace."

In each town, she talks disarmament, world government and religion to people on the streets, and to radio and TV audiences, if she has the chance. Here, she is staying at the home of the Rev. G. S. Nichols, and will talk at Collegiate Methodist church Sunday at 8 p. m.

She wears the tunic on her travels so persons will notice her and stop and talk. When asked her name, she simply replies "Peace Pilgrim."

She said that hers is an effort to see what one little person can do for world peace. We already know the way to world peace, she thinks, but what we need today is more practice of what we believe.

"I am just urging that each person put the things he believes into practice, and work for world peace according to his own motivations."

"Peace Pilgrim" averages about 25 miles a day on her own particular road to peace.